Rationale

For my Major Assignment 4, my main purpose is to make young teenagers realize that their literacy sponsors are their teachers, parents, and major changes in their lives. I want to show my targeted audience how they make a huge impact on our literacy. Everyone plays a huge role in our lives, whether if it's positive or negative sponsors. I decided to do a photo essay for this project because I thought it would be a good idea because photos have a lot of meaning. You can tell a lot by looking at a photo perhaps a story or recall an emotion. I prefer visual images over word text because that's just how I am. My brain doesn't function the same way when I look at a bunch of words versus a series of photographs. I thought of taking some photos for the photo essay so it could bring back memories of the things the audience did when they were a kid. The viewers might feel something and recall memories or flashbacks after seeing a series of photographs that tell a story.

Another way to make the audience realize is by creating an article about someone. An article would also be a good genre for this project because it will tell about a person's life story. It would be difficult and challenging to create one but it's not impossible. I thought of it because why not, the audience might relate to the person's life that I am writing about after reading the article. They might find similarities and compare and maybe find joy again. I think it's essential in people's life to remember things that they used to do and just have that feeling because it just feels right. You learn more or few from your past, the experiences you had, and are shaped the way you are because of the literacy sponsors you had. I just want my targeted audience to understand and realize that they are who they are because of the literacy sponsors that they had in their journey till now.
